Because each client's concerns are unique, Stark & Stark's attorneys create plans to give each client the comfort of knowing that their loved ones will be prepared to respond decisively when the need arises.

Designing and implementing a plan to preserve, protect, and transfer assets is most effective when completed before a crisis occurs. The crisis, however, sometimes arrives without warning, demanding immediate responses to complex legal, tax, business, and health care decisions. Inadequate preparation for life transitions and delayed response often lead to increased costs and loss of control over important personal and financial choices.
